WORKING TITLE: THE GLORY DAYS / THE GOOD OLD DAYS

The Glory Days is a dramatic feature film documentary about systemic issues of race, identity and masculinity in English football through the eyes of one team in red whose story of mischief, medals and revolution is more infamous than most: Arsenal.

ARSENAL IN STATS:

Before we kick off, let us guide you through a whistle-stop stats tour of Arsenal Football Club.

Arsenal considered to have "one of the most widespread and diverse fan bases in all of football" - - Source: The Bleacher Report

Ranked 5th biggest and most supported football team in the word, ahead of the likes of Manchester City and Liverpool.

Nearly 38 million Facebook likes, Nearly 17million Instagram followers and over 15million Twitter followers edging the likes of PSG, Juventus and Inter Milan.

Worldwide fan base of circa 125 million.

One of the six founding members of the English Football League, established in 1888, where they won 10 league titles.

Arsene Wenger was the first foreign manager to lift the Premier League title, when the Gunners won it in 1997/98.

First club to win the League Cup and FA Cup in the same year (1993).

Arsenal have won three Premier League titles, out of them they won one title without losing a single game over a 38 game season, winning 26 and drawing 12 (2003/4).

First ever English league match to be broadcast on the radio (vs Sheffield United, 22nd January 1927). First ever English league match to be broadcast live on television (vs Arsenal reserves, 16th September 1937). First ever match to be broadcast on television in 3D (vs Manchester United, 31st January 2010).
